and Mrs. Murray will leave on Wednesday in the Wilhelmina for the Coast.

Mrs. W. L. Emory gave a pretty card party yesterday afternoon at her home on Bates street in honor of Mrs. Pearson, a sister of Mrs. Thurston, who has just returned from the Coast. There were three tables at bridge. Mrs. Bodge received the first prize, Mrs. Redford the second, Mrs. Potter the third and Mrs. Lees the consolation prize.

Captain and Mrs. Carter gave a dinner Wednesday night in honor of General and Mrs. Murray.

The table was prettily decorated in yellow chrysanthemums, and all the appurtenances of the table in harmonious shades of yellow.

Those who partook of Mrs. Carter's hospitality were General and Mrs. Murray, General and Mrs. Macomb, Major and Mrs. Neville, Captain and Mrs. Gaylor and Mrs. Frederick William Coleman.

Admiral and Mrs. Cowles gave an elaborate dinner last night in honor of Rear Admiral Chauncey Thomas and Mrs. Thomas.

Sixteen covers were laid, and the table was artistically decorated in poinsettias. Candles with red shades and poinsettia place cards were in harmony with the motif of decoration.

Those present at this dinner were Admiral and Mrs. Thomas, General and Mrs. Murray, General and Mrs. Macomb, Major and Mrs. Neville, Dr. Tucker Smith, Captain Terhune, Mr. Bishop, Miss Agnes Walker and Mrs. Swanzy.

The dinner was given in honor of General and Mrs. Murray.

Those present besides the guests of honor were General and Mrs. Macomb, Major Gilmore, Captain and Mrs. Carter, Mrs. Frederick William Coleman, Lieutenant Price, Lieutenant Pratt, Lieutenant Andrews, Mr. Canavaro, Mr. Arana, Mrs. Swanzy and Miss Swanzy.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Cartwright gave a dinner on Wednesday evening in honor of Miss Bishop, who has been their house guest for the past week. Dinner was served at three small tables which had been tastefully decorated with American Beauty roses.

Those present were Miss Bishop,

THE DAILY HINT FROM PARIS.

Miss Edith Williams, Miss Agnes Walker, Miss Bertha Kopke, Consul Canavaro, Senor Arana, Dr. Hedemann, Ed Hedemann and George Fuller.

Miss Myra Angus entertained yesterday in honor of Miss Hargear.

The girls all brought their Christmas sewing and spent the afternoon in conversation and sewing. Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

Those present were Miss Hargear, the Misses McStocker, Miss Grace Robertson, Miss Mary Catton, Miss Blanche Soper, Miss Margery Freeth, Miss Harriette Young and Miss Edith Williams.

The dance given by the Scottish Thistle Club at the Moana on Thanksgiving night was a very pleasant affair. Fully a hundred couples were dancing throughout the evening in the large makal lanai of the Moana.

The place was decorated for the occasion in Scottish and American flags, and Kaul's orchestra furnished music for the occasion. Punch and lemonade were served during the evening.

The ball given by the Marine Corps last evening at the Young Hotel was a very large affair.

A great many people were present. Both ball rooms and the roof were filled all evening. The programs were elaborate, and hospitality was unbounded.

The committees who arranged this function were:

Invitations—Corporal David Morrison, chairman; Sergeant Ray McMahon, Corporal Wm. E. Connolly, Private W. D. Adams, Private Arthur G. Rutherford.

Decorations—Corporal Raymond Le Cuyer, chairman; Drummer John Gall, Trumpeter James Bly, Trumpeter Clay E. McKean, Private Charles O. Pritchard, Private Mike Seber.

Reception—Corporal Hermann B. Hoppe, chairman; Corporal John Hopland, Corporal William Shandera, Private Harry A. Fiscus, Private Everett J. Harvey, Private Lee B. Samanski, Private Ralph Trier, Private Alfred Hillier, Private William Roper.

Floor—Private John H. Mitchell, chairman; Corporal John S. McGrath, Corporal John McDonald, Corporal James F. Dickey, Private Bunt A. McDonald, Private August J. Lapsansky.

Refreshments—Sergeant Charles Cornette, chairman; Private Frank Berndt, Private Oscar Chidester, Private John Gallagher, Private Charles F. McCarthy, Private Albert Morris.

The following catalogue was issued by the Wahine Kapu Club on November 26, 1911, when, complimentary to Miss Withrow, the young men gave a dinner and an art exhibit:

37. Sunset. R. W. Perkins.
41. Sunset. C. D. Wright.
47. Sunset. G. H. Humphrey.
51. Sunset. M. H. Drummond.
57. Sunset. F. C. Howes.
61. Sunset. R. S. Elliott.
67. Sunset. G. C. Hodges.

From the numerals given it will be noted that they were all odd numbers. The names of the artists at once suggest a class of art such as few Honolulu people ever have the opportunity of viewing. Miss Withrow herself confessed that she had never seen anything like it in any of the galleries of Europe.

The expressions of appreciation from the guest of honor were very touching. Hope is revived, ambitions aroused that may cause the names of those who "dared to do" these masterpieces to be hung where they should be.

It would be expected that such words of appreciation might make the artists top-heavy, but it was not so. They asked for a criticism, and this is what was given:

No. 37. A Sunset, by R. W. Perkins. There is some dispute as to the botanical construction of the Eiffel Tower to the left. Some people think it is Cleopatra's Needle, but the local mosquito jury will decide early next week. The tone is early English as she is spoke.

No. 41. A Sunset, by C. D. Wright, is an archeological crystallization of the path to Valhalla, though not used for that purpose in this case. The color varies.

No. 47. A Sunset, by G. H. Humphreys, is a simple thing in Scotch plaid and technical activities, wholly unlooked for, probably inspired by some thing Scotch.

No. 51. A Sunset, by M. H. Drummond. This is a unique and wonderful electrical conglomeration of scarlet suddenness, entirely simple, but very pointed.

No. 57. A Sunset, by F. C. Howes, would be a faithful depiction of "three men in a boat," if the boat were right side up and the men were out of the water. The reflections are sad.

No. 61. A Sunset, by R. S. Elliott, is a reversible. Right side up it is turbulent, but one becomes quieter if he stands on his head to view the view. It would be an etching if it were not done in charcoal.

No. 67. A Sunset, by G. C. Hodges, is a creation of great expectation. It reminds one of the poem, "Tis midnight, and the setting sun is rising in the deep, deep West."

Unnumbered and unsung is one picture labeled "This Is a Dog"—a paper dog, to be sure, but an elegant specimen of canine ferocity.

The whole exhibition is unique, if not understandable. One is wise to be warned.

Vida Villa's seventy-five guests were treated to a Thanksgiving dinner for which all felt special thanks were due. The feast was a delight, including all the season's good things, and served as only the charming hostess, Mrs. L. B. Evans, knows how, with a glitter of silver and cut glass and exquisite napery, all in fact that lovers of refinement enjoy. The color scheme was yellow—gold and yellow silk shades on candles and yellow chrysanthemum centerpieces in cut glass, long-stemmed holders. For the most part evening gowns were worn, and created a lovely picture.

THREE WIVES RELATE WOES

Mrs. Theresa Ledo, who was suing her husband for divorce, fainted in the courtroom yesterday after giving her testimony concerning her husband's cruelty and habitual intemperance. It was necessary for Judge Whitney to adjourn court and have the woman removed to his chambers, where she was with difficulty revived. Mrs. Ledo testified that her husband was intemperate and that he had beaten her and failed to support her. Judge Whitney granted the divorce and ordered the man to pay Mrs. Ledo permanent alimony of $5 a week and to pay her counsel fees.

Margaret Schumelster has filed suit for divorce from Joseph Schumelster, a sugar boiler at Waianae plantation. She alleges that when she was sick he refused to allow her to have medical attendance, with the result that she has suffered grave injury. She claims, also, that she has been severely abused in the presence of strangers. Judge Whitney issued an order directing the defendant to appear and show cause why he should not pay counsel fees and temporary alimony.

Another unhappy wife is Mrs. Julia Mortensen who wants a divorce from Henry Mortensen. She claims that her husband has beaten and kicked her and has used a dagger to cut and beat her about the head.

Nemo Self-Reducing Corsets $4.00

With Lastikops-Limshaping Extensions

THE LATEST NEMO SUCCESS
 Long corsets push the flesh down; make the upper limbs thicker—and there's often an ugly bulge below the corset-skirt.

Nemo Lastikops-Limshaping Extensions re-shape and reduce the upper limbs to natural size, smooth out the bulge of fat, so that your thinnest gown fits without a wrinkle. Make you look smaller as well as stylish. In two models—

No. 406—low bust $4.00
 No. 408—high bust $4.00

Both have the famous Nemo Self-Reducing front—the ONLY perfect abdominal support. Six Lastikops hose supporters; in sizes 20 to 36. Great value!
